

THEY FALL IN LINE

The Democrats Quit Fighting Each Other

TO PIT GROVER AGAINST BLAINE

His Candidacy Said to Be Inevitable.

The Probable Officers of the Minneapolis Convention.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The Kentucky convention and Mr. Watterson's speech last night have served to arouse renewed interest in the Democratic contest. A friend of Mr. Watterson said today: "The anti-Cleveland and the anti-Hill men have quit fighting."

"What do you mean?" was asked. "That those democrats who feel it is unwise, impolitic and dangerous to nominate either Cleveland or Hill, have made their last appeal on the subject. They say now to the friends of Cleveland: 'If you want to nominate Mr. Cleveland and are willing to assume all responsibility involved in his candidacy, go ahead. We have said all that we have to say about the matter. The responsibility rests entirely with you.'"

Continuing the gentleman said: "The democrats are of the opinion that Secretary Blaine will be the Republican nominee."

"Is that the reason why the fight against Cleveland was dropped?"

Cleveland inevitable. "I guess that is it," he said. "If Blaine is the nominee of the Republicans, Cleveland is his inevitable opponent. To select any other would be to admit that there is nothing in the man nor the issue which he represents."

The statement sent out from New York to the effect that Blaine would not return to Washington after the Minneapolis convention had been held, but would visit Maine in the meantime, was a matter of surprise when made known to his household. When he left Washington it was his expressed purpose of returning on Thursday, and since his departure nothing to the contrary has been received from him. It is also said that the president has no knowledge of any intention on the part of the secretary of state to remain away from Washington for any such length of time.

MINNEAPOLIS PROBABILITIES

Political gossip today, probably owing to the presence of Chairman Clarkson in the city, has been very confidential with fellow members regarding matters connected with the convention, turns chiefly upon the organization of the convention at Minneapolis. A report is current that Gen. Horace Porter, the well known Republican visitor of New York, will be the temporary chairman, although of course this cannot be officially confirmed, inasmuch as the announcement will not be made before the meeting of the committee at Minneapolis next week. For permanent chairman a verbal name has been mentioned, prominent among them being those of Senator Cullom of Illinois, ex-Senator Spencer of Wisconsin, and Representative Burrows of Michigan. Senator Sawyer, Mr. Spooner's old colleague, is interesting himself in the latter's interest and working with his well-known energy to secure this honor for him, and he expresses great confidence that he will be successful. Messrs. Clarkson and Now will leave Washington on Friday, stopping over en route at Indianapolis and Chicago. Mr. Now expects to reach Minneapolis on Monday.

CLARKSON ON BLAINE

He Says the Latter Will Accept on One Condition.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The New York afternoon says: "General Clarkson took breakfast this morning with Secretary Blaine, and the political situation was discussed. One remark made by him was a significant bearing. It is understood that Mr. Clarkson expressed surprise at the action of politicians who have heretofore been unfriendly to Mr. Blaine in trying to force Mr. Blaine into accepting the nomination. Mr. Clarkson is said to have remarked with emphasis that Mr. Blaine, since writing his letter of declination to General Clarkson, had repeatedly told him (Mr. Clarkson), and also told the president, that he did not want the nomination and would not accept of it if it were offered to him. In view of this decision of Mr. Blaine, which is known to the politicians, Mr. Clarkson could not understand the course of the politicians in trying to force Mr. Blaine into accepting the nomination. To this General Clarkson said, he had replied that he had not believed from Mr. Blaine upon the substance receiving the letter of declination, but that he had reasons of his own for entertaining the belief that Mr. Blaine would not refuse the nomination, provided he received it by such an overwhelming majority as to indicate that the Republican party believed his nomination to be necessary to carry the election."

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE MEETING

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The United Press is authorized by General Clarkson, chairman of the Republican national committee, to say that a meeting of the committee will be held at the West Hotel, Minneapolis, Saturday, June 4, at 11 a. m.

WILD TIME IN THE HOUSE

An Unexpected World's Fair Amendment Raises a Tempest.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The scene in the house today resembled that of the stock exchange or boards of trade. This unexpected and wild occurrence was occasioned by an amendment to the World's Fair appropriation in the sundry civil bill offered by Mr. Housa of Ohio, appropriating $100,000 for collecting, preparing and publishing facts and statistics of the industrial and intellectual development of the colored race from 1863 to 1892 to constitute a part of the exhibition. This opened the door for wide range of debate. Mr. Johnson (Republican) of Indiana attacked the Democratic party for its treatment of the negro and for suppressing his right of franchise. He extolled President Harrison as a friend of the colored man and said that no one was more patriotic or devoted in his allegiance to that race. Mr. Henderson (Republican) of Iowa regretted that the president and the governors of the several states had not

ONE FOR THE LAITY

It Will Have Equal Representation WITH THE CLERGY IN FUTURE

The Omaha Conference Decides Several Important Matters on Church Government—Temperance Struggle.

OMAHA, May 25.—The action of the Methodist conference at the afternoon session yesterday on the temperance question is regarded as a curious sort of staid. The report that was adopted declares unequivocally against any political party that favors license, and yet the resolution that was adopted immediately afterwards seems to release the members from all allegiance to the temperance cause. The general opinion seems to be that the object of the conference was to leave individuals unfettered in their political preferences.

The report on the Columbian Exposition matter was presented this morning. It was a long and tedious report, and the committee on the subject of the holding of the World's Fair, but demands that the gates be closed on Sunday. It also recommends the appointment of a committee to make a church exhibit at the exposition. The report was adopted.

The committee on the next ecumenical conference reported in favor of having a committee appointed consisting of eighteen members to act upon the matters relating to the interests of the church in the next ecumenical conference, and the report was adopted.

Judiciary Report. The committee on seating the next general conference submitted a report favoring the separate seating of the laymen and ministerial delegates. This report was also adopted.

Every one was bent to catch the report of the committee on judiciary touching the prerogatives of the bishops at meetings of the book committee when vacancies were to be filled. The judiciary committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

ONE FOR THE LAITY

It Will Have Equal Representation WITH THE CLERGY IN FUTURE

The Omaha Conference Decides Several Important Matters on Church Government—Temperance Struggle.

OMAHA, May 25.—The action of the Methodist conference at the afternoon session yesterday on the temperance question is regarded as a curious sort of staid. The report that was adopted declares unequivocally against any political party that favors license, and yet the resolution that was adopted immediately afterwards seems to release the members from all allegiance to the temperance cause. The general opinion seems to be that the object of the conference was to leave individuals unfettered in their political preferences.

The report on the Columbian Exposition matter was presented this morning. It was a long and tedious report, and the committee on the subject of the holding of the World's Fair, but demands that the gates be closed on Sunday. It also recommends the appointment of a committee to make a church exhibit at the exposition. The report was adopted.

The committee on the next ecumenical conference reported in favor of having a committee appointed consisting of eighteen members to act upon the matters relating to the interests of the church in the next ecumenical conference, and the report was adopted.

Judiciary Report. The committee on seating the next general conference submitted a report favoring the separate seating of the laymen and ministerial delegates. This report was also adopted.

Every one was bent to catch the report of the committee on judiciary touching the prerogatives of the bishops at meetings of the book committee when vacancies were to be filled. The judiciary committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

The committee on the book committee decided that the bishops had a right to discuss the question before the committee only when that committee gave them no right to vote in meetings of the book committee. They might vote upon the action of the book committee on a vacancy, but they could not discuss the question before the committee.

IT LOOKS VERY DIM

Henry Watterson Talks Mournfully to the Democrats

ON PROSPECTS FOR SUCCESS

He Hopes to See Peace and Harmony Prevail, but Doubts the Future—The Kentucky Convention.

LOUISVILLE, May 25.—The Democratic state convention to select four delegates at large to the national convention met here at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Much interest is attached to the action to be taken on account of the strong Cleveland and anti-Cleveland ideas which were contending for supremacy. There was a third element in the fight and that was represented by those who were opposed to instructing the delegates.

This element affiliated with both of the factions, and in the preliminary fight gave most of its strength to the anti-Cleveland side, and elected Mr. Charles R. Long of Louisville, as temporary chairman. The principal significance presented in the result was that the convention is opposed to instructing its delegates.

Mr. Long made his speech along the lines of party success without reference to the personality of the candidates for the Democratic nomination. If it is the wisdom of the national convention that Grover Cleveland should be selected as the standard bearer no one will, he said, support him more heartily than himself. He attributed his own election to the issue of non-instruction involved in the selection of a temporary chairman. The vote in the contest was Long 427, Bronston 290.

Mr. Bronston addressed the convention in a strong Cleveland speech.

Watterson's Speech. When Mr. Bronston concluded a call was made for Mr. Watterson, and upon his appearance he was greeted with tumultuous applause. His reception was a perfect ovation from Cleveland and anti-Cleveland men alike. Mr. Watterson began his remarks in a humorous vein and then became serious. "The situation in which the party finds itself at this time," he said, "is critical."

All that he can make of it is that we are between the devil and the deep blue sea, between Charleybois and Scylla, and no matter which way we turn our bark, dark clouds threaten. The only comfort that he can see is that the enemy is in the middle of a similar fix.

"Yes," he added, "there is one other comfort; when things get they are hard to mend, but when they get damn bad they just cut loose and mend themselves. I do," he continued, "think it possible to nominate a ticket that will give the faction a good chance to win the election in November. In the state of New York, which is necessary to Democratic success, I see nothing but chaos. If we go there for a candidate we walk through a slaughter house to an open grave." But he would not encourage gloomy forebodings. He believed that the darkest hour is just before the dawn of day, and is hopeful that some sort of order can be brought out of the state of affairs in New York if the party can only be brought to reason.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

IT LOOKS VERY DIM

Henry Watterson Talks Mournfully to the Democrats

ON PROSPECTS FOR SUCCESS

He Hopes to See Peace and Harmony Prevail, but Doubts the Future—The Kentucky Convention.

LOUISVILLE, May 25.—The Democratic state convention to select four delegates at large to the national convention met here at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Much interest is attached to the action to be taken on account of the strong Cleveland and anti-Cleveland ideas which were contending for supremacy. There was a third element in the fight and that was represented by those who were opposed to instructing the delegates.

This element affiliated with both of the factions, and in the preliminary fight gave most of its strength to the anti-Cleveland side, and elected Mr. Charles R. Long of Louisville, as temporary chairman. The principal significance presented in the result was that the convention is opposed to instructing its delegates.

Mr. Long made his speech along the lines of party success without reference to the personality of the candidates for the Democratic nomination. If it is the wisdom of the national convention that Grover Cleveland should be selected as the standard bearer no one will, he said, support him more heartily than himself. He attributed his own election to the issue of non-instruction involved in the selection of a temporary chairman. The vote in the contest was Long 427, Bronston 290.

Mr. Bronston addressed the convention in a strong Cleveland speech.

Watterson's Speech. When Mr. Bronston concluded a call was made for Mr. Watterson, and upon his appearance he was greeted with tumultuous applause. His reception was a perfect ovation from Cleveland and anti-Cleveland men alike. Mr. Watterson began his remarks in a humorous vein and then became serious. "The situation in which the party finds itself at this time," he said, "is critical."

All that he can make of it is that we are between the devil and the deep blue sea, between Charleybois and Scylla, and no matter which way we turn our bark, dark clouds threaten. The only comfort that he can see is that the enemy is in the middle of a similar fix.

"Yes," he added, "there is one other comfort; when things get they are hard to mend, but when they get damn bad they just cut loose and mend themselves. I do," he continued, "think it possible to nominate a ticket that will give the faction a good chance to win the election in November. In the state of New York, which is necessary to Democratic success, I see nothing but chaos. If we go there for a candidate we walk through a slaughter house to an open grave." But he would not encourage gloomy forebodings. He believed that the darkest hour is just before the dawn of day, and is hopeful that some sort of order can be brought out of the state of affairs in New York if the party can only be brought to reason.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

He then turned to the Kentucky convention and said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success. He said that he hoped the Kentucky convention would be a success.

BEN WILL STAY IN

No Matter Who or What May Happen

HIS FORCES BEING ORGANIZED

His Principal Hope Rests in a Division in Blaine Among the Ministers

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The political situation is better defined. Two months have been made clear within the last few days. First—That the president will be a candidate for re-nomination whoever else may be a candidate, and that he will remain in the contest nominated or defeated. Second—That the president will have recognized managers, and that he will conduct an aggressive and active campaign to the end. Both of the statements are made upon the best authority. The announcement is in direct opposition to declarations which have been made by those who have been assumed to have full knowledge of the president's intentions. Some who are supposed to have the confidence of the president have said that Harrison would not permit his name to be presented at Minneapolis, and that he would not be a candidate, and that both of these could not be aspirants for the nomination. It is undoubtedly true that at one time such was the purpose of the president. But that time has passed. It is, doubtless, true, also, that the president in which he has been made of the name of Mr. Blaine within the last week, whether with or without the approval of Mr. Blaine is immaterial, so far as the determination of the president is concerned, has been the decision which has led